

13 October Program

Marlene McDonald, Philomath Local Historian, will talk about the early history of Philomath leading up to this month's Philomath 125th anniversary.

Genesis, or In the Beginning By Ric

By Richard Cobb

First - My Grandfather and Grandmother on my Dad's side were Jack Wisdom and Emeline Brown, both of Englisdescent (will explain later) and to them were born 15 children. I only know who 9 of them were - Jasper Wisdom, aunt Nan Wisdom, Uncle Frank wisdom, Sloman Wisdom, Martha Wisdom, Alice Wisdom, George Wisdom, (Caroline Cole's father), William Wisdom and my father James Monrow Wisdom.

As I can name them now, Mother's side was Grandpa Sam Turnbough, and Grandma Rachel Osher. Sam Turnbough was ¼ Indian - Grandma Osher was English. Grandpa Sam Turnbough was a big man and had brown eyes with black hair. The Turnboughs came to Missouri up the Mississippi River to the little trading post called St. Louis, Missouri on rafts dressed in buckskins and moccasins. From St. Louis they went west following the Missouri River as far as central Missouri. They were trappers and fur traders, many many years ago in that territory and were among the early settlers there.

We know the Wisdoms, the Browns and the Oshers originally came from England. This gives you an idea of the origin of the Wisdom Family. The proof is that I have a son, Gene, your cousin who was in South America a few years ago and when he returned was sent to Harvard University for a course of study. When he registered and filled the application for entrance, a lady registrar was helping. She saw Gene write my name on the Mother's maiden name line and said, "Wisdom, she is English, so is my Dad", "1 was born in England and would you believe my own name is Ann Wisdom, and England is full of Wisdoms So you know you do have some English origin.

My Mom's brothers and sisters in the Turnbough family were Uncle Ivory Turnbough, Uncle Allen Turnbough, Uncle Hiram (Hi) Turnbough, Aunt Emma Brown, Aunt Elizabeth Peck (married Names) and Jane, my Mother.

When the Civil War came along my Dad was 12 years old (1861) and Mother was 9, however, they didn't know each other then. Her two brothers and father were called up and fought for the Confederacy. My Dad's two brothers were called and were in the Union Army. As we all know it was considered one of the bloodiest of wars in our history. I don't know Dad's two brother's war record, but Mom told me about her family's record. Uncle Ivory and Uncle Hi Turnbough were called early in the war and Grandpa was called near the end when younger boys 14 years of age and their fathers went.

Grandpa had asthma very bad so Hi and Ivory got permission to return home to help their father and see that he got to their unit but the saddest is, he never had a chance. They left by horseback and almost made it back to the Army when they stopped to let their horses drink in a little stream. All at once, gun fire was opened against them. The boys escaped but couldn't get back to him. Riddled with bullets, he was left by the little stream stripped of all cloths except underwear. Gone was his horse, saddle and saddle bags on which his initials were engraved, the boys didn't dare go back. They went on, thinking he might be lucky to come later but no one knew his fate for several days.

They said Grandpa had lain there two or three days 'till two women on horseback came through and almost stepped on his body, before they saw him. These two women took him and prepared him for burial. None of the family knew of it for many days because there was nothing left for identification, but they were told, from someone, that Grandpa had 30 bullets fired into his body, however, no other information could be obtained. The details eked out by bits. (But in the details of one Sunday later, I'll describe those days of the saddlebags and the boys).

Program Review By David Kribs, Program Chairman

8 September 2007 - Show 'N' Tell - Genealogical Experience members and friends had this summer. Bill Gleaves filled us in on his genealogy trip to Virginia, the National Archives, Jamestown, etc. He along with many others—always interesting as to how real people achieved success in their genealogical searches..

Upcoming Programs

10 November 2007 - Benton County Museum Recourses - Mary Gallagher, Curator of History and Research/Registrar 8 December 2007- Christmas Party and fund-raiser Auction 12 January 2008 - Creative Memories

PAINT PARTY

Tuesday 16 Oct 07 (9a - 4p). As part of our agreement with the Museum over our continued use of the Annex we have volunteered to help maintain it. Besides donating $500 toward fixing the roof, we agreed to paint the living room and the hall.

It may be that we can touch up some of the paint, which we will try on the 16th. However, the base boards and the adjacent flooring need scraped, cleaned, sanded, and repainted. This likely will require reclining on the floor (a little dirty). We'll try to have sandpaper, solvent, rags, water-base paint, tape, newspapers, a tarp, painters plastic sheeting, some brushes, scrapers, etc. Be sure to wear old paint cloths— bring scrapers, rags, and brushes if you have any.

Come help awhile if you can or bring your grandkids. You can contact [davidkribs@hotmail.com] 929-6079 or Bill Gleaves.

Last Chance To Donate! Christmas Raffle Item Sought

We are still seeking a raffle item for our Christmas program. In order to sell tickets, it is necessary that we receive a donation by November 10!

If you have an item of more than a nominal value please consider a donation right away as a possible raffle item for December (donations do qualify as charitable tax deductions). Books published by Benton County Genealogical Society are always available for purchase at the society library after each meeting, and every Tuesday afternoon from 12:30 until 3:00 PM. They are also available at the Benton County Historical Museum, during their normal hours.

Queries

HENKLE FAMILY QUERY

In response to Mike Nichols' query in the BCGS 8 Sep 07 newsletter. We have the minutes of the Henkle Family Association Western Section in our library. Only they are from 1909 and 1919. Included are personal accounts concerning the family and the 1858 Henkle families Wagon Train ending at their settlement in Pleasant Valley (west along hwy 34 going out of Philomath). The family was active in the early affairs of Philomath and Corvallis—building a saw mill (the second in Benton County) and involved in establishing the Colleges which lead to the present Museum building and to OSU. Mainly, it appears their interest may have been to sell them some lumber—which they did.

The pamphlet has maybe 100-200 pages of what should be worthwhile information. Send us your address and some money $15-20 and we'll copy it for 10¢ a page plus postage. You can contact [davidkribs@hotmail.com] 541-929-6079.

CAMPBELL FAMILY

I would like to know if anyone has experience with finding births from the early 1940's in the St. Mary's Catholic Church baptismal records. I have a query client that would like information on the daughters of Clarence L. and Zita L. Campbell, Karen and Cherry.

The Campbells lived in Corvallis in the 1960-1980 period and may have been here earlier. Their daughters were born in the decade after 1943, so no record from the Census is yet available. I can do the lookups if there is a chance of finding them.

I can be contacted at newcombg@cmug.com

HURD FAMILY PHOTOGRAPH

I've "rescued" an old photograph which is identified as "Mr. HURD, Aunt Ella, and John". The photograph was taken at the Novelty Studio in Santa Cruz, California, likely sometime in the 1880's with the couple appearing to be in their 30's and with a boy abut 4 years old. I'm hoping to locate someone from this HURD family so that this precious old photograph can be returned to the care of family.

If you are a member of the family, or if you know someone who might be, please contact me.

Thanks,

Shelley Cardiel cardiels@comcast.net

Grave Witching

Some persons refer to the practice as "Grave Dowsing". There are several versions of 'witching'; but some claim you can determine whether the grave is occupied by a man or woman.

Hold two pieces of L-shaped wire in each hand. Grasp them by the handles but do not hold them tightly, and aim them out in front of you. Walk across each grave and the wires will show whether it be a man or woman. If they cross, it's a man, and if they open outward it's a woman. If you decide to experiment, go to a cemetery with headstones and discover what the wires can show you.

WARNING: Some people do not believe in "witching" and the practice may not work for everyone, but it will be fun to try. Source unknown

IOOF Cemetery Records Updated, 2007

Dorothy Brandner of Eugene, a guest at our September meeting, brought a huge notebook containing information she has collected on the Corvallis IOOF Cemetery. She donated this documentation to our Benton County Genealogical Society Library. Her care and dedication to detail is evident in the documentation and database she compiled while working closely with the IOOF Cemetery manager and using original Oddfellows records for Barnum Lodge #7 in Corvallis. In addition, Dorothy was extremely helpful in creating an up to date IOOF Cemetery index that we posted on our Benton County GenWeb cemeteries page, a very welcome addition. Many genealogy researchers will benefit from her effort.

By Gene Newcomb

I have made inquiries about doing a group collection of cheek swabs for FREE DNA analysis by Sorenson Molecular Genealogy Foundation. The Foundation does analysis of mitochondrial DNA on all samples and Y chromosome analysis on samples from men. They will hold the sample and later plan to do even more extensive analyses of the rest of the contributor's chromosomal DNA. The donations are shielded so that no living persons can be identified. However with your knowledge of your own pedigree you can determine the mutations in your sample and compare them to others. In addition you can determine your specific haplogroup affiliations from their data. The person giving the sample for analysis is obliged to submit a four generation ancestry chart with dates of significant events and localities with the sample.

I would like to get an idea of the number of kits that I should order You could get a kit not only for yourself but also other family members. I will be using a kit for my daughter and her husband, for instance. I will poll the people at the October meeting, but I know that not all of you will be there, so if you are interested, you may contact me by e-mail at newcombg@cmug.com or through the BCGS at P.O. Box 1646, Philomath, OR 97370. If you do not have a computer, you can still participate. I or other BCGS members would be willing to get your results from the Sorenson website. I will also consult on the analysis of the data you obtain. My thought is to try to have the kits available on or before the December meeting so that they could be used for relatives visiting at Christmas. Please let me know by October 27th if you are interested.

For everyone's information only: Here's the response I got from Sorenson Foundation. I am going to write her about getting the flier to include in our newsletters.

Thanks for your interest in doing a group collection with us. We are really excited to work with you in this. Please let me know how many kits you would need and by when. What kind of group will you being collecting fro? Scout group, genealogy group, family reunion or other? We have flyers that you can pass out to people to explain to them how this works. Let me know if you have any questions.

Genetic Genealogy

I just wanted to share with you this article as it relates to the Northwest and Genetic Genealogy. It also shows you from the first paragraph that we have a long way to go in helping people understand Genetic Genealogy and the migration of humans. http://seattletimes.nwsource.com/html/localnews/2003893154_kistlerprize20m.html Enjoy,

NEW OFFICERS

It's the Society's new officer time again. Anyone interested in anything—contact our totally inept nominating committee chairman David Kribs or our totally competent President Bill Gleaves. Last year we came up with the concept of having co-officers. This has worked well as you have a chance to initially get the feel of things (especially some of our extensive genealogy resources) without the total responsibilities of office.

Please help we need you.

CLASSES OFFERED

Greetings folks!

Some of you may be getting this a second or third time depending upon which classes you attend and on what email lists. There was an interested lady in the last GFO DNA Interest Group meeting who wanted to come to the Woodstock class, but I didn't get her name or email, if anyone remembers her and can provide that information. Thanks!

I just wanted all of you to know that IF our Woodstock writing class is larger than the one I am teaching downtown this fall, then we will have a guest speaker for one session. If the Woodstock class is smaller than the Elm Court Loaves & Fishes, then the speaker will be there. The speaker is George Sidline who was born in Japan just before WWII and was raised there during WWII. He has written these memories and is published. I'm sure you will greatly enjoy him. He was in The Oregonian a few weeks ago, if you saw the article.

My classes are as scheduled: Writing Your Memoir Ages 18 & up Tuesday 12:30-2:30 pm 10/23-12/11 Emily Aulicino 503-771-4130 aulicino@hevanet.com Call Woodstock Community Center at 503-823-3633 on Monday from 3:30-8:30 pm or Wednesday 5-8:30 pm.

OR

Call Mt. Scott Community Center 503-823-3183, any time during normal business hours.

Another Class: Writing Your Memories class Elm Court Loaves & Fishes 1032 SW Main, on the corner of SW 11th & Main. Wed. October 24 - Dec. 12, 1- 3 pm. Open for registration August 13 Email www.portlandparks.org or people can call the reservation center 503.823.2525 and register over the phone with a credit card.

Another Class: NOTE: You must be a member of the MAC Club or know someone who is and come as their guest.

"Memoing" My Memories

Everyone would love to find a journal or diary of their ancestors. Where's yours? Many people neglect recording their own history and that of their immediate family. Many do not have the time to start or know where to begin. This class will provide a format for genealogists and non-genealogists to easily write memoirs for their family and descendants. Preserve those precious memories before they disappear! Class instruction provided by Emily Aulicino.

Please let anyone you know about these classes. Those who know me, know that I'm greatly interested in getting EVERY-ONE to write their family stories and memories. It is most important for our descendants...not just our children. Thanks so much for all your kind support,

Emily

NEW JUNCTION CITY HISTORY

A History of Junction City,, Oregon by OGS member Linda Van Orden is now available at the OGS Library in Eugene. Linda started gathering this information a number of years ago, has revised it a couple of times, and has now included an index. She used newspaper articles and photos, as well as, interviews and letters form many long term residents to create a very interesting and factual story of Eugene's neighbor.
